until 25th November

The International Week in Teacher Education will take place at FAU (online) from 30 November to 5 December 2020. The event is organized within the project "FAU Teacher Education International" and designed to promote the internationalization of Teacher Education at FAU. The week is specifically supposed to highlight existing resources for internationalization at home. Students and teacher educators from FAU and abroad will learn more about different systems of (teacher) education, and about international mobility in teacher education. They network, share knowledge and best teaching practices and engage in courses, lectures and workshops. International guest will present their institutions to prospective exchange students and prepare new projects and exchanges in teacher education. Participants of the international week will contribute to the further development of internationalization in teacher education at FAU.

For further information about the program, please contact Prof.

Dr. Anatoli Rakhkochkine or Maren Hanneken: zfl-lehramt-international@fau.de who represent the coordinating committee of the project "FAU Lehramt International". "FAU Teacher Education International" is a project covered by funds from the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) provided by the Federal Ministry of Education and Research (BMBF).

Selected program items are designed specifically for international participants and color-coded in the program below (international students of Teacher Education and international lecturers in Teacher Education/International Offices and staff). Some program items will be offered in English (ENG). Otherwise, activities are in German.
